SYLLABUS

BBFA501: HISTORY OF ART-III

(Common to Applied Art and Painting)

2L:1T:0P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- Historical perspective is an integral part of understanding any subject.
- It sets a parameter for the artist to consider art objectively and to know its potential and progress across different periods.
- It helps the artist to analyse art from architectural, social and economic points of view.
- The module focuses on medieval Indian art history, prior to and during the Mughal period, and its regional variations.
- It covers the transition of Indian art from temple architecture to miniature painting traditions.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Analyse the architectural and sculptural styles of Nagara, Dravida, Vesara and regional dynasties (Pallava, Chola, Chalukya-Rashtrakuta, Chandela, Hoysala, Odisha).
- Evaluate the evolution of Mughal painting and architecture from Humayun to the post-Aurangzeb decline (Akbari, Jahangiri, Shahjahani styles).
- Compare Mewar, Bundi-Kota, Marwar and Kishangarh styles, their subject matter, and their distinction from Mughal and folk art.
- Assess the development of Basohli, Guler and Kangra styles as the culmination of Mughal-Rajasthani artistic synthesis.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Medieval Sculpture and Architecture • Nagara, Dravida and Vesara architectural styles • Architecture and sculpture of Pallava, Chola, Chalukya, Rashtrakuta • Chandela/Hoysala and Odisha period art	10
UNIT-II	Mughal Art • Humayun period — Persian influence, arrival of Iranian painters (Mir Sayyid Ali, Abd al-Samad) • Akbari style — Hamzanama, Akbarnama • Jahangiri style — naturalism, portraiture • Shahjahani style — golden age of architecture (Taj Mahal, Red Fort) • Decline and stylistic decentralisation after Aurangzeb	10
UNIT-III	Rajasthani Art (Rajput Miniature Painting) • Mewar style • Bundi-Kota style • Marwar (Jodhpur) style • Kishangarh style (Bani Thani) • Subject matter: Ragamala, Barahmasa, Krishna-Lila • Distinctions from Mughal style and local folk elements	10
UNIT-IV	Pahari Art • Basohli style — early, intense colour palette • Guler style — transitional phase • Kangra style — delicate line work, nayika-bheda, Gita Govinda illustrations • Mandi and Chamba sub-styles	10

	• Culmination of the Mughal-Rajasthani synthesis

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

BBFA554: COMPUTER GRAPHICS-III

0L:1T:4P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- Computers are a basic tool used in the modern world.
- This module builds proficiency in vector and bitmap software for print production.
- It introduces digital workflows for posters, packaging, brochures and signage.
- It develops an asset base for the artist to align with modern printing technology.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Create posters for print and digital output using vector and bitmap software.
- Create packaging designs digitally using vector/bitmap tools.
- Produce a print-ready brochure design applying binding and colour considerations.
- Create signage designs considering print production, fabrication and design constraints.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Digital Posters • Poster for print production; poster for digital printing • Creating a poster in vector graphics (Illustrator) • Creating a poster in bitmap graphics (Photoshop)	10
UNIT-II	Packaging • Creating packaging in vector graphics/bitmap software (Illustrator/Photoshop)	10
UNIT-III	Brochure Design • Print production of brochures; binding process • Special colours; design considerations • Creating a brochure design in Adobe InDesign	10
UNIT-IV	Signage Design • Signage technology • Print production of signage design; fabrication and design consideration • Creating signage in Illustrator/Photoshop	10

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment 1: Produce a print-ready poster and packaging design using Illustrator and Photoshop, with correct colour mode and bleed settings.

Assignment 2: Design a multi-page brochure in Adobe InDesign for a real or fictitious brand.

BBFA051: PHOTOGRAPHY-III (ELECTIVE)
0L:1T:2P 2 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- Photography is the art, science and practice of creating durable images by recording light.
- This module builds camera-handling skills, lighting techniques and photographic technology.
- It develops the ability to shoot still-life, portrait and travel photography with proper framing and composition.
- It builds application of exposure, lens and filter choices for specific photographic results.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Use lighting accessories such as soft-boxes and reflectors effectively.
- Shoot still-life photographs with control over exposure, aperture and composition.
- Shoot portrait photographs applying appropriate lighting and lens choices.
- Shoot travel photographs considering light, subject selection and composition.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Lighting • Using soft-boxes and reflectors • Different types of soft-boxes • Different types of reflectors • Lighting accessories	8
UNIT-II	Still Life Photography • Observing light and light temperature • Selection of subject • Exposures, apertures • Choice of lens, filters • Choice of shot	8
UNIT-III	Portrait Photography • Observing light and light temperature	8

	• Selection of subject • Exposures, apertures • Choice of lens, filters • Choice of shot
UNIT-IV	Travel Photography • Observing light and light temperature • Selection of subject • Exposures, apertures • Choice of lens, filters • Choice of shot	8
UNIT-V	Shooting Exercise • Shoot still life • Shoot baby/child/teens/family • Shoot streets/museums/architecture • Shoot with automated and manual modes, different lenses, flash, natural light and filters	8

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Produce a portfolio of 15 photographs covering still life, portrait and travel photography, demonstrating control of lighting and composition.

BBFA052: ENTERTAINMENT DESIGN-III (ELECTIVE)

0L:1T:3P 2 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- To introduce students to sound recording and set design as tools of visual storytelling.
- To develop skills in multi-track audio production and advanced video editing.
- To build understanding of media studies as they relate to entertainment and communication design.
- To integrate technical craft with creative concept in entertainment production.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Record and edit sound using multi-track recording techniques.
- Design and construct a set considering space, materials and budget.
- Apply advanced editing workflows to a multi-layered project.
- Analyse the role of media, communication and culture in entertainment design.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Sound Recording • Understanding sound • Audio production basics; sound as visual; acoustic/sound localisation and masking • Sound recording technology and compression; sound studio • Multi-track recording and sound editing	8
UNIT-II	Set Design • Making of a set • Significance of space • Materials and construction • Financial consideration and research • Prototype/model; creating a set design	8
UNIT-III	Advanced Editing-I • Editing techniques • Editing software workflow • Creating a multi-track audio project • Creating a multi-layered editing project	8
UNIT-IV	Media Studies • Technology, communication and culture studies • Satellite media and communications • Media and development; media management • Methodologies and research	8

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Design and construct a simple set and record/edit a short multi-track audio-visual sequence demonstrating the set.

BBFA053: ANIMATION-III (ELECTIVE)

0L:1T:3P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- To build advanced knowledge of the principles of animation, especially character design.
- To introduce digital production workflows for filmmaking using current software and hardware.
- To build foundational computer skills in 2D ink-and-paint, compositing and basic 3D modelling.
- To introduce fundamentals of web design and development relevant to animation delivery.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Apply advanced principles of animation to character design.
- Explain pre-production, production and post-production workflow in digital filmmaking.
- Perform basic 2D ink, paint and compositing operations digitally.
- Understand the fundamentals of 3D modelling and web design and development.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Advanced Principles of Animation • Character design • Shapes to define characteristics and attitudes	10
UNIT-II	Digital Production • Basic art of filmmaking using current digital software/hardware tools • Overview of pre-production planning — program ideas, production models • Pre-production and post-production activities	10
UNIT-III	Computer Fundamentals of 2D Ink, Paint and Compositing • 2D ink and paint workflow • Basics of digital compositing	10
UNIT-IV	Computer Fundamentals of 3D Modelling • Basics of 3D modelling workspace and tools	5
UNIT-V	Computer Fundamentals of Web Designing and Development • Basics of web design and development relevant to animation portfolios/delivery	5

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Design an original animated character (front/side/T-pose) and create a short pre-production package (character sheet, storyboard, production plan).

BBFA054: PACKAGING-I (ELECTIVE)
0L:1T:3P 2 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- To introduce the concept, origin and scope of packaging design.
- To familiarise students with different approaches and principles of packaging design.
- To develop skills in the packaging design process and prototype development.
- To connect packaging design with branding and consumer communication.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Explain the historical perspective and origin of packaging design.
- Identify different approaches and principles of packaging design.
- Apply the packaging design process to develop a working solution.
- Create a physical prototype of a package design.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Introduction to Packaging • Historical perspective • Origin of packaging design	12
UNIT-II	Usage of Packaging Design • Different approaches to packaging design • Principles of packaging design	14
UNIT-III	Process and Technique • Designing process of packaging design • Creating prototypes	14

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Design and produce a physical packaging prototype for a product of your choice, considering structure, print graphics and sustainability.

BBFA063: ANIMATION-IV (ELECTIVE)

0L:1T:3P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- To build understanding of designing animation through directing and analysing film.
- To develop skills in adapting film language into animation.
- To build competency in 3D character design and detailed modelling.
- To develop computer fundamentals of compositing and 3D character animation.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Direct and analyse a film applying animation film techniques.
- Adapt film language into animation sequences.
- Model a 3D character from conceptual art with proper mesh flow.
- Apply computer fundamentals of compositing and 3D character animation.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Designing of Animation • Directing and analysing a film • Animation film techniques • Film language in action • Adaptation of film language into animation	10
UNIT-II	3D Character Designing • Conceptual art to draw side and front views of the character in T-pose • Importing front and side views of the character in 3D • Creating the character with proper mesh flow • Detailed modelling of body parts (hands, legs, ears, etc.) • Generating new innovative characters and discussing body language as per rigging needs	10
UNIT-III	Computer Fundamentals of Compositing • Basics of digital compositing for animation	10
UNIT-IV	Computer Fundamentals of 3D Character Animation • Basics of rigging and character animation in 3D	10

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Design and model an original 3D character from concept art through to a basic rigged pose, with a short compositing exercise.

BBFA064: PACKAGING-II (ELECTIVE)
0L:1T:3P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- To build advanced skills in photography-based, illustration-based and typography-based packaging design.
- To develop the packaging design process from concept to final execution.
- To build understanding of prototyping methods for packaging.
- To connect packaging design decisions with brand communication.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Design photography-based packaging with a complete prototype and final execution.
- Design illustration-based packaging with a complete prototype and final execution.
- Design typography-based packaging with a complete prototype and final execution.
- Compare the communicative effectiveness of different packaging design approaches.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Packaging — Photography Based • Designing process/method • Creating prototypes • Final execution	13
UNIT-II	Packaging — Illustration Based • Designing process/method • Creating prototypes • Final execution	13
UNIT-III	Packaging — Typography Based • Designing process/method • Creating prototypes • Final execution	14

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Design three packaging solutions for the same product — photography based, illustration based and typography based — and present them together with prototypes.
