SYLLABUS

BBFA501: HISTORY OF ART-III

(Common to Applied Art and Painting)

2L:1T:0P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- Historical perspective is an integral part of understanding any subject.
- It sets a parameter for the artist to consider art objectively and to know its potential and progress across different periods.
- It helps the artist to analyse art from architectural, social and economic points of view.
- The module focuses on medieval Indian art history, prior to and during the Mughal period, and its regional variations.
- It covers the transition of Indian art from temple architecture to miniature painting traditions.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Analyse the architectural and sculptural styles of Nagara, Dravida, Vesara and regional dynasties (Pallava, Chola, Chalukya-Rashtrakuta, Chandela, Hoysala, Odisha).
- Evaluate the evolution of Mughal painting and architecture from Humayun to the post-Aurangzeb decline (Akbari, Jahangiri, Shahjahani styles).
- Compare Mewar, Bundi-Kota, Marwar and Kishangarh styles, their subject matter, and their distinction from Mughal and folk art.
- Assess the development of Basohli, Guler and Kangra styles as the culmination of Mughal-Rajasthani artistic synthesis.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Medieval Sculpture and Architecture • Nagara, Dravida and Vesara architectural styles • Architecture and sculpture of Pallava, Chola, Chalukya, Rashtrakuta • Chandela/Hoysala and Odisha period art	10
UNIT-II	Mughal Art • Humayun period — Persian influence, arrival of Iranian painters (Mir Sayyid Ali, Abd al-Samad) • Akbari style — Hamzanama, Akbarnama • Jahangiri style — naturalism, portraiture • Shahjahani style — golden age of architecture (Taj Mahal, Red Fort) • Decline and stylistic decentralisation after Aurangzeb	10
UNIT-III	Rajasthani Art (Rajput Miniature Painting) • Mewar style • Bundi-Kota style	10

	• Marwar (Jodhpur) style • Kishangarh style (Bani Thani) • Subject matter: Ragamala, Barahmasa, Krishna-Lila • Distinctions from Mughal style and local folk elements
UNIT-IV	Pahari Art • Basohli style — early, intense colour palette • Guler style — transitional phase • Kangra style — delicate line work, nayika-bheda, Gita Govinda illustrations • Mandi and Chamba sub-styles • Culmination of the Mughal-Rajasthani synthesis	10

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment 1: Prepare a comparative chart of Rajasthani and Pahari miniature painting schools with illustrated examples.

Assignment 2: Visit a museum/archive (physical or digital) and prepare a report on Mughal miniature paintings, documenting style, technique and iconography.

BBFP503: VISUAL ART PROCESS & PRACTICES-III

2L:1T:0P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- It is essential to understand the nature and behaviour of materials in visual art.
- Every material reacts differently on different surfaces; this understanding is key to experimentation.
- Usage and application of material is unique to every artist and central to self-stylisation.
- This module focuses on colour application, surface preparation and contemporary painting practice.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Understand the role of methods and materials in painting.
- Establish the concept of material application in an individual artistic style.
- Understand advanced surface preparation, canvas choice, stretching and framing.
- Comprehend contemporary painting practice, its territory, influences, issues and challenges.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Visual Art: Methods-I • Colour application in painting • Causes of changing colours	13
UNIT-II	Visual Art: Material-I • Preparation for painting • Advanced concepts of surface preparation • Choice of canvas • Preparing and stretching of canvas • Framing concepts	13
UNIT-III	Visual Art: Contemporary Painting • Territory and practice • Influence study • Issues and challenges	14

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment 1: Prepare and stretch a canvas from scratch, documenting the process with photographs and notes.

Assignment 2: Write a report on a contemporary Indian painter, analysing their material practice and influences.

BBFP553: COMPOSITION-III

0L:1T:4P 2 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- Composition is the placement or arrangement of visual elements in a work of art.
- It can be understood as the organisation of the elements of art according to the principles of art.
- This module develops the process of setting different elements within a given space and surface.
- It builds detailed understanding of forms, figures, nature and individual temperament in composition.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Arrange elements within pictorial space applying compositional principles.
- Compose figures and forms with an understanding of their relationship and behaviour.
- Compose nature-based subjects considering light, reflection and shadow.
- Create compositions reflecting individual artistic temperament and thought process.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Composition-I: Handling of the Pictorial Space • Creating a composition from elements • Interrelation of elements within space • Learning division of space • Examples of great masters • Methods of creating relationship between elements and background space	10
UNIT-II	Composition-II: Forms and Figures • Creating a composition from figures • Different types of forms; behaviour and nature of forms • Figurative approach in painting • Relationship between figures and forms • Arranging elements from sketches of daily life • Faces, expressions, depiction of moods • Medium: poster colour, oil pastels & watercolour, pen & ink on paper	10
UNIT-III	Composition-III: Nature • Creating a composition from nature • Detailed landscape studies • Study of water, river, gardens, mountains • Study of natural light, reflection and shadows • Medium: poster colour, oil pastels & watercolour, pen & ink on paper	10
UNIT-IV	Composition-IV: Individual Temperament • Creating a composition from own imagination • Nature and reflection of individual temperament • Subjects of one's own art • Unique thought process and its application • Medium: poster colour, oil pastels & watercolour, pen & ink on paper	10

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Create a series of four compositions — pictorial space, figurative, landscape and imaginative — using consistent format and medium.

BBFP554: PRINT MAKING-I

0L:1T:3P 2 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- This module introduces intaglio and planographic print processes — etching, wood-cut and lithography.
- It builds understanding of the historical development of printmaking.
- It develops competence in materials, tools and methods of each process.
- It develops the ability to produce a finished print in each technique.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Explain the historical development and process of etching printing.
- Explain the historical development and process of wood-cut printing.
- Explain the historical development and process of lithography.
- Produce a finished print applying each of the three techniques.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Techniques: Etching Printing • Historical perspective • Development of graphics printing processes • Method and material • Study of the great masters' work	13
UNIT-II	Techniques: Wood-cut Printing • Historical perspective • Development of graphics printing processes • Method and material • Study of the great masters' work	13
UNIT-III	Techniques: Lithography • Historical perspective • Development of graphics printing processes • Method and material • Study of the great masters' work	14

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Create an etching print, a wood-cut print and a lithography print on a common theme, and compile a comparative process portfolio.

BBFP555: INTEGRATED DESIGN PROJECT-III

0L:1T:4P 2 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- To enable students to integrate advanced design principles, colour theory, and composition into complex, multi-layered art projects.
- To develop advanced skills in conceptualizing, planning, and executing a coherent, series-based body of visual artwork with a clear personal vision.
- To encourage in-depth experimentation with diverse media, techniques, materials, and mixed-media approaches in painting.
- To foster advanced creative problem-solving, critical thinking, and mature individual artistic expression.
- To introduce professional, project-based, industry-oriented, and exhibition-ready art practices.
- To enhance the ability to communicate ideas visually through a cohesive body of work, professional portfolio, and public exhibition.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Analyze and apply advanced principles of design, colour, and composition within a cohesive, multi-work art project.
- Conceptualize and plan a cohesive series of visual artworks with a clear artistic vision and thematic depth.
- Experiment with and evaluate diverse media, techniques, and mixed-media approaches to enhance individual artistic expression.
- Create an integrated, exhibition-ready body of work that demonstrates individual creativity and professional design practice.
- Communicate ideas effectively through professional exhibition, portfolio presentation, and completed artworks.

Design Projects:

1. Advanced Creative Thinking Process & Conceptual Development
2. Art and Philosophy: Exploring Existential & Conceptual Themes
3. Art and Culture: Cross-Cultural & Contemporary Perspectives
4. Public Art: Community-Engaged & Site-Specific Projects
5. Digital Art & New Media Painting
6. Contemporary Art Trends & Global Movements
7. Art History: In-Depth Period/Movement Study & Application
8. Art and Poetry/Literature: Interdisciplinary Visual Narratives
9. Open Thematic Exploration: Developing a Personal Artistic Voice
10. Aesthetics: Advanced Theory & Critical Application
11. Art and Society: Socio-Political Commentary through Painting
12. Pop Art: Contemporary Reinterpretation
13. Street Art & Urban Art Practices
14. Great Masters and Their Work: Homage & Reinterpretation
15. Art Criticism & Curatorial Writing

16. Museum & Gallery Studies: Exhibition Design
17. Advanced Mediums and Techniques (Mixed Media, Experimental Surfaces)
18. Series-Based Painting: Developing a Cohesive Body of Work
19. Abstract & Non-Representational Painting Explorations
20. Portraiture & Figure Studies: Advanced Approaches
21. Landscape & Environmental Art: Contemporary Interpretations
22. Art Therapy & the Psychology of Colour
23. Sustainable & Eco-Art Practices
24. Portfolio Development & Professional Exhibition Practices
25. Live/Public Exhibition Project (Capstone)

Evaluation Methodology:

1. Individuals Daily Performance
2. Project Review: Mid Semester
3. Peer Review & Critique Session
4. Project Submission & Viva: End of the Semester
5. Exhibition / Portfolio Presentation

Suggested Assignments

1. Assignment 1: Create a cohesive series of at least 5–8 paintings on a self-chosen advanced theme (from the Design Projects list), demonstrating conceptual depth, exploration of media/technique, and a unified artistic vision.
OR
2. Undertake an in-depth study of a chosen art movement or master artist, and create a body of work that reinterprets or responds to that study in a contemporary context.
3. Assignment 2: Curate and present a professional portfolio/exhibition of the completed body of work, including an artist statement, exhibition display plan, and documented critique/feedback session.

BBFP051: MURAL-I (ELECTIVE)

0L:1T:2P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- A mural is artwork painted or applied directly on a wall, ceiling or other large permanent surface.
- This module builds understanding of how architectural elements are harmoniously incorporated into mural composition.
- It introduces mosaic tile technique as a mural medium.
- It develops competence in materials, tools and processes for mural work.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Explain the historical development and process of mural art.
- Apply mosaic techniques to create a mural using artistic composition and framing methods.
- Understand the materials, tools and wall preparation used in tile-mosaic murals.
- Create a mosaic mural applying appropriate colours and painting method.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Introduction to Mural-I • Historical perspective • Development of mural art • Mural processes in detail • Creating a mosaic mural	18
UNIT-II	Mural — Tile Method • Various forms of tile methods in mural — focus on mosaic • Material, tools, wall plastering, etc. • Techniques and materials used • Colours and painting method • Historic know-how and contemporary applications of the tile technique	22

BBFP052: CERAMICS-I (ELECTIVE)

0L:1T:2P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- This course prepares students studying ceramics for the first time with a comprehensive introduction.
- It focuses on studio work along with demonstrations of technique and technical assignments.
- It develops the ability to create, appreciate and express creativity through clay forms.
- It builds understanding of the historical evolution of ceramics and hand-building methods.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Understand clay and glaze composition and formulation.
- Apply hand-building methods including pinch and coil construction.
- Understand firing and glazing methods for stoneware clay.
- Appreciate ceramics from a historical perspective spanning Neolithic times to the present.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Introduction to Ceramics-I • Historical perspective • Development of ceramics • Ceramic processes in detail • Method and material • Study of great masters' work • Ceramic terms and definitions; studio policies, safety and clean-up	14
UNIT-II	Hand-Building — Pinch Construction • Various forms of construction methods in ceramics — focus on pinch construction • Historic know-how and contemporary applications of the pinch technique	13
UNIT-III	Hand-Building — Coil Construction • Various forms of construction methods in ceramics — focus on coil construction • Historic know-how and contemporary applications of coil construction technique	13

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment 1: Create a ceramic form using pinch construction.

Assignment 2: Create a ceramic form using coil construction and prepare a handbook of dos and don'ts of ceramic practice.

BBFP053: PHOTOGRAPHY-I (ELECTIVE)

0L:1T:2P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- This module introduces the camera as a creative tool, its evolution and technology.
- It builds observation skills for subject selection and light in photography.
- It develops understanding of exposure, aperture, lens and filter choices.
- It introduces automated and manual shooting settings.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Understand the evolution of cameras and film formats.
- Observe light and select subjects appropriately for photography.
- Apply exposure, aperture, lens and filter choices to control the shot.
- Operate a camera using automated and manual settings, flash and video modes.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Camera as a Tool • Evolution of the camera • Camera technology • Film formats • Optical lenses/accessories	13
UNIT-II	Camera Techniques — Observation, Selection of Subject • Observing light • Selection of subject • Exposures, apertures • Choice of lenses, filters • Choice of shot	13
UNIT-III	Automated and Assisted Settings • Shooting modes • Flash modes • Video mode • Manual settings	14

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Produce a portfolio of ten photographs demonstrating control of exposure, aperture and composition, submitted at the end of the semester.

0L:1T:2P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- Computers are a basic tool used in the modern world.
- This module introduces essential computer utilities relevant to digital art practice.
- It builds understanding of digital technology and operating platforms used in graphics.
- It introduces vector and bitmap software fundamentals.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Use essential computer utilities such as anti-virus, file compression and data recovery tools.
- Understand digital technology and different platforms used in graphics.
- Differentiate between vector and bitmap software and their applications.
- Work with simple images using basic vector and bitmap tools.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Introduction to Utilities • Anti-virus • File compression • Fonts • CD/DVD burning • Data recovery • Clean-up	13
UNIT-II	Computer Technology • Digital technology • Introduction to different OS and platforms used in graphics • Introduction to graphic software	13
UNIT-III	Vector and Bitmap Software • Understanding of vector and bitmap software • Introduction to vector software • Introduction to bitmap software • Working with simple images	14

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Create a simple vector illustration and a simple bitmap-edited image on the same theme, submitted at the end of the semester.

BBFP654: PRINT MAKING-II

0L:0T:3P 2 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- This module introduces drypoint, silkscreen printing and engraving.
- It builds understanding of the historical development of each printmaking technique.
- It develops competence in materials, tools and methods for each process.
- It develops the ability to produce finished prints in multiple techniques.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Explain the historical development and process of drypoint printing.
- Explain the historical development and process of silkscreen printing.
- Explain the historical development and process of engraving.
- Produce etching, wood-cut, drypoint and silkscreen prints.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Techniques: Drypoint Printing • Historical perspective • Development of graphics printing processes • Method and material • Study of the great masters' work	13
UNIT-II	Techniques: Silkscreen Printing • Historical perspective • Development of graphics printing processes • Method and material • Study of the great masters' work	13
UNIT-III	Techniques: Engraving • Historical perspective • Development of graphics printing processes • Method and material • Study of the great masters' work	14

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Create an etching print, a wood-cut print, a drypoint print and a silkscreen print, and present a comparative process portfolio.

BBFP655: ART & CULTURE TOUR

0L:1T:4P 2 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- Educational field trips contribute to the development of students into educated, culturally aware citizens.
- They help develop critical-thinking skills and increase historical understanding.
- They build patience, open-mindedness and an appreciation for art and culture.
- They help students gather factual details and improve recall value about works of art.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Document and critically analyse works of art and cultural sites encountered during the tour.
- Demonstrate historical understanding of the places, museums and monuments visited.
- Exhibit team work, patience and behavioural discipline during a group educational activity.
- Prepare and present a professional tour report with critical analysis.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Tour Planning and Guidelines • Organising the tour across places covering different cultures, museums, institutions and historically significant sites • Preparation of instructional material and clear learning objectives before the tour	10
UNIT-II	Facilitated Learning During the Tour • Student-directed discussions with museum educators/guides • Documentation of factual details and critical observations	10
UNIT-III	Project Report and Evaluation • Preparation of a project report covering tour details, historical understanding and critical analysis • Evaluation on project report, tour details, critical thinking, historical understanding, level of interest, patience, behavioural study and team work	10

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Prepare a project report on the art and culture tour covering tour details, historical understanding and a critical analysis of at least five works of art/cultural sites visited.

BBFP062: CERAMICS-II (ELECTIVE)

0L:1T:2P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- This module extends ceramics practice with slab construction and wheel-throwing techniques.
- It builds understanding of firing and glazing methods for stoneware clay.
- It develops competence in wheel throwing and trimming.
- It builds a historical understanding of ceramic art through a compiled handbook.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Apply slab construction techniques to create ceramic forms.
- Perform wheel throwing and trimming to create horizontal and vertical forms.
- Understand contemporary applications of slab and wheel-throwing techniques.
- Compile a handbook documenting ceramic art through history.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Introduction to Ceramics-II • Historical perspective • Development of ceramics • Ceramic processes in detail • Method and material • Study of great masters' work • Ceramic terms and definitions; studio policies, safety and clean-up	14
UNIT-II	Hand-Building — Slab Construction • Various forms of construction methods in ceramics — focus on slab construction • Historic know-how and contemporary applications of the slab technique	13
UNIT-III	Wheel — Throwing and Trimming • Wheel throwing and trimming demonstration — one horizontal bowl/plate form and one vertical cylinder form • Historic know-how and contemporary applications of wheel technique	13

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment 1: Create a ceramic form using slab construction and one using the wheel.

Assignment 2: Compile a handbook of ceramic art throughout history.

BBFP063: PHOTOGRAPHY-II (ELECTIVE)

0L:1T:2P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- This module builds camera techniques for framing composition, indoors and outdoors.
- It introduces understanding of films, sensitivity and bromide paper grades.
- It develops post-shooting image enhancement techniques.
- It builds familiarity with studio equipment and lighting.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Apply framing and composition methods (grids, rule of thirds, balancing elements) indoors and outdoors.
- Explain film sensitivity, bromide paper grades and the printing process.
- Perform post-shooting image enhancement including colour/tone correction and blemish repair.
- Use studio equipment and lighting to shoot using composition principles.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Camera Techniques • Framing a composition indoor and outdoor • Using grids • Balancing elements • Theory of odds • Rule of thirds	13
UNIT-II	Understanding of Films (Sensitivity), Bromide Paper Grades & Chemicals • Process of developing • Printing process • Film vs. digital • Spectral sensitivity; special films	13
UNIT-III	Post-Shooting Image Enhancement • Colour and tone correction • Repairing scratches/blemishes • Skin tone correction	8
UNIT-IV	Studio Equipment • Lighting • Special bulbs • Shooting using composition principles	6

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Shoot and post-process a set of studio photographs demonstrating both film-based understanding and digital image enhancement, submitted at the end of the semester.

BBFP064: COMPUTER GRAPHICS-II (ELECTIVE)

0L:1T:2P 3 Credits

OBJECTIVES

- This module builds working knowledge of vector graphic software and illustration techniques.
- It develops working knowledge of bitmap graphic software and rendering techniques.
- It builds understanding of printing techniques, scalability and colour models.
- It develops the ability to prepare files for print production.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Use vector graphic software to create illustrations with appropriate scalability.
- Use bitmap graphic software to render images with appropriate resolution.
- Apply printing techniques and colour models correctly for vector and bitmap outputs.
- Prepare print-ready files considering scalability and printing resolution.

COURSE CONTENTS

Units	Course Contents	Lectures
UNIT-I	Working with Vector • Vector graphic software • Illustration techniques • Printing techniques for vector graphics • Scalability and printing resolution • Colour models	13
UNIT-II	Working with Bitmap • Bitmap graphic software • Rendering techniques • Printing techniques for bitmap graphics • Scalability and printing resolution • Colour models	14

SUGGESTED ASSIGNMENTS

Assignment: Create the same design as a vector illustration and a bitmap-rendered image, and prepare both for print, submitted at the end of the semester.
